Yes, It's May....

.... and I KNOW you have all taken care of all your necessary weeding, pruning, cleaning your landscape beds, putting down pre-emergent for future weeds, applying fertilizers and have finished mulching. So now what do I do you ask?

Well, first thing to do in May then would be to do all of the above that you still really, actually haven't done!

Also, as you have probably noticed, some of your plants look a wee bit dead. Hopefully they are not. Just as last year with our horribly cold winter many plants such as butterfly bushes, crape myrtle, roses and others have not yet put out any new spring leaves. My suggestion again would be to just wait a couple more weeks and check close to the ground to see if there actually is any new growth. If you scratch the bark with your fingernail and it is still green then be patient as it may recover. If you don't have any fingernails left because you have chewed them all off worrying about your dead looking plants then a small knife will give you the same result. If the stems are brown, invite 10 friends over and have a going away party for the plant or plants. Or go solo!

Also, there has been quite a bit of deer browse and rodent damage to many shrubs including those that are normally safe from attack such as yews. This was due to the amount of snow we had this past winter and the length of time it remained. There was very little for the deer to eat above the snow so.....hmmmm...yukky yummy!!!

This is also the month to take care of Bagworms. You will need to spray any evergreen trees etc. in late May and then again in early June as this is the ONLY time you can easily kill them. If you would like to read a previous article about them and other critters mistakenly called by the same name then click here

Aphids are again menacing many plants including spirea, viburnum, birch trees and burning bushes. Look for leaves that are curling under and red spots on the spirea. If you want to know more about Aphids and how to control them then click here.

And finally, Don't forget to put down your post emergent weed control and fertilizer towards the middle of the month to keep your grass nice and perty. And remember we have all the stuff you need to DIY!!!!

Now.....On with the Show!!!!

and....

while you are here
remember it's also a

Great time of year for a PICNIC??

So why are these folks NOT smiling???

Probably because they know that soon they'll have ants and ticks and all kinds of other nasty, itchy, bitey, yukky, thingys crawling all over them because they are sitting on the grass.

Solution???

A picnic.... TABLE!!!

Duh!!!

AHHHHH....no more critters crawling all over your legs and trying to compete with you for food!

One of these "extremely" well built tables made of pressure treated wood, to last a lifestimem can be yours.

That's right! You and your family can enjoy a bug free picnic.... any time of the year... Even if the grass is wet!

Imagine for a moment. You have all the kids worked up about having a fun picnic. All the baskets are loaded and just when you head out the door it pours down rain. Nothing major but NOW the grass is soaked. Then the kids start whining and crying because you had promised them all week that they could have a picnic, and now they are almost out of control with their crying and screaming. It becomes so bad that now you need to discipline them and send them to their rooms.

NO PICNIC!!!

However, IF you had already owned one of these beautiful picnic TABLES all of that would have been avoided and everyone would still be laughing and having fun.

So for just pennies a day you can own a brand new 8' Picnic Table to keep the entire family happy and to enjoy year round if you so desire.

Only

$249.00

and.... all the corners have even been rounded over to help protect those wee ones!
